

How Should I Water the Trees and Shrubs in My Landscape?

For maximum benefit, water established trees from the drip-line to within 3 feet of the trunk. Keep water off the foliage when possible since wet leaves can contribute to disease problems. Soak the top foot of soil in the root zone on both trees and shrubs. If dry weather continues into the fall and winter, continued watering will be needed.