University of Illinois Extension has become a part of the social media world through the use of Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube. The links to these pages can be found on many University of Illinois Extension websites.

A bit of background of each of these websites:

Facebook is a global social networking website. Users can add friends and send them messages, and update their personal profiles to notify friends about themselves. Additionally, users can join networks organized by city, workplace, school, and region. If you have a Facebook account, please log in and "Become a Fan" of the Extension page so that you will receive updates from the page in your Facebook News Feed. Once you have become a fan, you can use the "Suggest to Friends" link below the Extension logo to promote this page to your Facebook friends. Becoming a fan of the U of I Extension page will not give Extension access to your personal Facebook profile. It will only subscribe you to the Extension Facebook news feed. We encourage you to create a Facebook account and 'Become a Fan' of Extension on Facebook. Our page can be found at: <http://www.facebook.com/UIExtension>

Twitter is a free social networking and micro-blogging service that enables its users to send and read messages known as tweets. Tweets are text-based posts of up to 140 characters displayed on the author's profile page and delivered to the author's subscribers who are known as followers.
